EDUCATION

Florida State University, 2015

Stetson University College of Law, 2023

Growing up, Vincent Valente had a front-row seat to the legal profession. His father, a Florida prosecutor, often shared stories of his courtroom experiences, sparking Vincent's early interest in trial advocacy. That influence, coupled with his father's journey as the first member of the Valente family to graduate college, helped inspire Vincent to pursue a career in law.

A longtime visitor to the Tampa Bay area, where his parents grew up and met in St. Petersburg, Vincent eventually made the area home while attending Stetson University College of Law. His path to law school included studying automotive mechanics, earning an Advertising degree from Florida State University, and working in corporate sales, marketing, communications, and commercial scuba diving.

As a trial attorney with Morgan & Morgan, Vincent represents individuals injured in automobile accidents. He brings a creative, detail-oriented approach to his cases, along with practical knowledge of automotive mechanics and technology. Most importantly, he values building genuine relationships with his clients and making sure their stories are heard. He approaches every case with enthusiasm, determination, and a commitment to going the extra mile.
