Law

Vanessa Irvin is an attorney in Morgan & Morgan's Fort Lauderdale office. Vanessa's practice is dedicated to representing clients who were injured due to the negligence of individuals and corporations. Prior to joining the firm, Vanessa spent over ten years representing employers and insurance carriers in litigated injury cases. During that time, she learned firsthand the strategies used by carriers in defending claims. Her experience gives her an advantage in representing injured clients. Vanessa focuses her practice on premises liability cases including slip and fall injuries and negligent security.

Vanessa was born and raised in South Florida. She is bilingual in English and Spanish. Vanessa attended Loyola University in Chicago, where she received her Bachelor of Arts in History and Political Science. She obtained her Juris Doctor from DePaul University in Chicago. She is licensed to practice law in both Florida and Illinois.
