James Dye, born in Rota, Spain, and having resided in Lisbon, Portugal for several years, brings a distinctive international perspective to his legal practice. He is fluent in Spanish and conversational in Portuguese. James has since relocated to the Orlando area, where he has established deep roots within the community. He regularly travels both domestically and internationally.

James began his legal carrier gaining 12 years of extensive experience primarily representing insurance companies and their insureds, where he developed invaluable insights into the intricate workings of insurance companies, insurance law, and personal injury cases. He now utilizes this expertise to effectively advocate for individuals facing challenges with their personal injury claims. His wealth of experience in dealing with insurance companies proves to be a significant asset, particularly in cases where insurers have failed to fulfill their obligations to injured persons, ensuring that his clients receive the full extent of benefits they are entitled to under the law.

Furthermore, Mr. Dye's legal journey has equipped him with a diverse skill set, extending beyond insurance law to encompass personal injury claims. This breadth of expertise allows him to approach each case with a comprehensive understanding of various legal intricacies, thereby maximizing the chances of success for his clients. His experience in representing both insurance companies and individuals offers a unique advantage in evaluating and strategizing cases, enabling him to tailor his approach to each client's specific needs and circumstances, ultimately working towards favorable outcomes and optimal results.
