The University of Miami School of Law

Rachel Sands Fleishman, a native Floridian, hails from a lineage of civil attorneys, instilling in her a strong sense of justice and advocacy. She earned her bachelor's degree from Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey, before delving into the legal realm by pursuing her Juris Doctor at The University of Miami School of Law.

Rachel's career trajectory reflects her deep commitment to social justice and human rights. Her early work in Immigration and Human Rights allowed her to channel her passion for helping people into meaningful legal avenues. Notably, Rachel contributed significantly to combating online abuses threatening civil rights and liberties during her tenure at the Cyber Civil Rights Initiative. Her dedication to upholding democratic principles extended to leading voter protection efforts during the crucial 2020 presidential election.

Currently practicing in Miami, FL, Rachel Sands Fleishman brings a unique blend of legal acumen, compassion, and advocacy to her role, particularly focusing on Premises Liability and Slip & Fall cases. Her multifaceted experiences and unwavering dedication to justice make her a valuable asset to her clients and the legal community alike.
