EDUCATION

University of Florida

University of Miami School of Law

Heiko Moenckmeier is a native of Orlando, Florida growing up fishing our local lakes and springs, and ultimately doing undergrad at Florida and Law School at The University of Miami.

Launching his litigation career helping citizens in need at the Public Defender, then he ran a general practice and successfully litigated a range of cases including asset seizures and forfeitures, sexual battery investigations, jail employee investigations, car accidents, school accidents, dog bites, insurance defense and more.

Having worked for and disliked the system of a national insurance company, Heiko has brought his talents to getting justice and remuneration for the individual.

“My obligation to my people is to maximize the redress in a court of justice to address my people’s pain and suffering. I recognize the tremendous responsibility placed in me by these folks, and I strive to reciprocate that trust by soldiering forward to a favorable outcome.”
