University of Connecticut

New York Law School

University of Miami School of Law

Edward comes to Morgan & Morgan from a prominent New York plaintiff's personal injury firm, where he established himself as a premier trial attorney.

Edward strives to give each client the attention they and their case deserve, recognizing that for most people the injuries that led them to seek representation are the most difficult thing they have gone through. With caring and compassion he has helped hundreds of clients navigate through the legal system to successful resolutions.

He graduated from the University of Connecticut in 2004, and obtained his law degree from New York Law School in 2008. While in law school, Edward interned in the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of New York. After graduating law school, Edward practiced law in Miami, Florida, before returning to New York to practice personal injury law in New York City. Edward has successfully represented clients in State and Federal Courts. His experience includes trials, alternative dispute resolution, motion practice, court appearances, drafting pleadings and handling discovery. He has successfully resolved cases by negotiating settlements and advocating on behalf of his clients. He has vast experience working with insurance companies to settle cases for his clients. In addition to being admitted to practice law in the state Courts of New York and Florida, Edward is admitted to practice law in the United States District Court – Eastern District of New York, United States District Court – Southern District of New York, and United States District Court – Southern District of Florida.
