EDUCATION

College of Charleston, B.A., 2007

Florida Coastal School of Law,
J.D., 2011

Patrick Graves, a native of Charleston, South Carolina, brings a wealth of legal experience to Morgan & Morgan's team. He obtained his Bachelor of Arts degree from the College of Charleston in 2007 before pursuing his Juris Doctor at Florida Coastal School of Law, where he graduated in 2011. Currently, Patrick is a member of the Florida and South Carolina Bars, allowing him to practice law in both jurisdictions as well as Federal Courts in both states.

Prior to joining Morgan & Morgan, Mr. Graves honed his legal skills at a distinguished defense firm in South Florida. During this time, he represented numerous companies, gaining valuable insights into their strategies and tactics. Now, as part of Morgan & Morgan, Patrick leverages this experience to advocate vigorously for his clients in personal injury cases and insurance claims, ensuring they receive the justice and compensation they deserve.

Beyond his legal career, Patrick enjoys spending quality time with his family and engaging in outdoor activities including coaching his daughters' sports teams. A passionate sports enthusiast, he also relishes watching college football games whenever he can. With a strong commitment to his clients and a dedication to achieving favorable outcomes, Patrick Graves is a formidable advocate in the legal arena.
