EDUCATION

University of Mississippi

Mississippi College School of Law

Nicholas Puckett's legal journey is deeply rooted in his Mississippi origins, having been born in Jackson, Mississippi. He began his academic pursuits at the University of Mississippi (Ole Miss) for his undergraduate studies, laying the groundwork for his future legal career. Subsequently, Nick followed his passion for law by attending Mississippi College School of Law, where he earned his Juris Doctor degree, cementing his dedication to the legal profession.

Before joining Morgan & Morgan, Nick refined his legal skills and advocacy at a Plaintiff's firm in Hattiesburg, Mississippi, where he served as an associate attorney. During his tenure there, Nick gained invaluable experience handling various legal matters related to plaintiffs' rights, particularly in personal injury law. His unwavering commitment to seeking justice for individuals who have been wronged or injured reflects his steadfast dedication to upholding the rights of the vulnerable and fighting for fair compensation.

Outside of his legal career, Nick treasures his role as a father. He takes pride in being a father to a one-year-old son named Cohen and eagerly anticipates the arrival of a second child in October 2021. This personal aspect of his life underscores Nick's values of family and responsibility, which undoubtedly translate into his professional endeavors as he endeavors to protect the rights and well-being of his clients, specializing in areas such as car accidents and auto injuries.
