EDUCATION

Agnes Scott College

Southern University Law School

Chantal Revere is a dedicated lawyer at Morgan and Morgan, with a strong background in personal injury, workers' compensation, and employment law, covering areas like disability rights, age discrimination, and workplace fairness under Title VII. Born and raised in Atlanta, Georgia, where she's also licensed to practice law, Chantal started her academic journey at Agnes Scott College and then went on to Southern University Law School to become a lawyer. She has worked on both sides of the courtroom, defending and supporting clients in Florida and Louisiana, making her a well-rounded advocate for her clients.

Outside of work, Chantal loves exploring Atlanta's food scene and is passionate about animal welfare. Her interests show her deep ties to her hometown and her commitment to making a difference both in and out of the courtroom. Chantal's mix of professional skills and personal interests makes her a valuable part of the Morgan and Morgan team, where she continues to fight for people's rights while also engaging in community activities that she loves.
