A fourth-generation attorney, Susan Neal's career choice came honestly. Her great-grandfather started a general practice firm near her southern Mississippi hometown—a practice that her grandfather, father, and brother have continued growing into the successful practice it is today. She credits her father's enthusiasm about his work as her inspiration for providing a friendly and listening ear, creatively solving problems, and fiercely advocating for her clients.

Before joining Morgan & Morgan, Susan Neal used these skills to represent clients at two highly esteemed Nashville firms. She has honed her litigation skills across a broad spectrum of cases for the past decade, and nothing makes her happier than fighting to right wrongs. She excels at reviewing complex matters that require attention to detail, extensive research, and concentrated decision-making.

She earned her Bachelor of Arts degree with honors from Samford University and then graduated from Wake Forest University School of Law, where she served as a board member of the Moot Court.

When not in a courtroom, Susan Neal is happiest spending time with her precious little girls and husband in their chosen hometown of Music City, USA.
