Christian is an attorney in Morgan & Morgan's Orlando, Florida office that maintains a nationwide practice, regularly appearing in state and federal courts across the United States. Christian's practice focuses primarily on representation of people who have suffered injuries as a result of defective products and the negligence of others.

Prior to joining Morgan & Morgan, Christian was a partner in an Orlando-based firm where he represented both Fortune 500 companies and small business owners in prosecuting and defending lawsuits based in unfair and deceptive trade practices, false advertising, antitrust, securities fraud, and other complex commercial litigation matters.

Christian attended the University of Florida where he obtained a B.S. in Finance. He attended Stetson University School of Law where he obtained his Juris Doctor. During law school, he served as the Executive Editor of the Stetson Law Review, worked as research and writing teaching assistant, and competed for the national championship as a member of Stetson's Moot Court Team. Christian has been recognized as a "Rising Star" by Florida Super Lawyers magazine every year since 2018, which is an annual publication that recognizes the most outstanding 2.5% of lawyers in Florida each year.
