Addis Ababa University Law School (2012)

Bethel Kassa's legal journey is a testament to her unwavering dedication to excellence and her profound expertise in international law. As a crucial member of Morgan & Morgan's Mass Tort Law & Briefing Group, she specializes in meticulously preparing motions, briefs, and appeal briefs for the firm's class action and multidistrict litigation teams. Bethel's academic foundation was laid at Addis Ababa University, where she graduated in 2007, establishing the bedrock for her legal expertise. Her pursuit of higher education led her to earn an LLM in International Law from the esteemed George Washington University Law School in 2016, further strengthening her grasp of complex legal concepts on a global level.

Prior to joining Morgan and Morgan, Bethel honed her legal skills by representing foreign states and companies in international arbitrations and commercial litigations. This included multimillion-dollar cases related to foreign judgment and arbitral award enforcement actions, contract disputes, and fraud and RICO claims. This diverse background has given Bethel a comprehensive understanding of international legal frameworks and the intricacies of cross-border litigation, making her a highly valuable asset to the firm's mass tort and class action lawsuit teams. As a licensed attorney admitted to practice in the District of Columbia and New York, Bethel brings a wealth of knowledge and experience to her practice, ensuring that clients receive comprehensive and strategic legal representation tailored to their unique needs. Her commitment to delivering exceptional legal services and achieving favorable outcomes underscores her reputation as a skilled and trusted attorney in the field of international law and mass tort litigation
