Cassandra Pena is a dedicated personal injury attorney based in Washington, DC, known for her compassionate approach and unwavering commitment to her clients. Originally from El Paso, Texas, Cassandra moved to DC to pursue her passion for law, majoring in Political Science at American University. She went on to graduate from the Catholic University of America's Columbus School of Law in 2021 and has been working in the field of personal injury for over a year. Now a proud member of the Morgan & Morgan law firm, Cassandra is devoted to providing her clients with the best possible representation.

Fluent in both English and Spanish, Cassandra ensures that her clients are fully informed about every step of the legal process. Her goal is to handle the complexities of their cases, allowing her clients to focus on their recovery and well-being. Cassandra's dedication to clear communication and client education sets her apart, making her a trusted advocate in the personal injury field. Her compassionate and effective representation aims to secure the best possible outcomes for those she represents.

Outside of her professional life, Cassandra finds joy in spending time with her little pug, Paloma, who is her whole world. Paloma brings a sense of balance and happiness to Cassandra's busy life, reminding her of the importance of care and companionship. Cassandra Pena's combination of professional excellence and personal warmth makes her a standout attorney in Washington, DC, committed to making a difference in the lives of her clients.
