Jason Daigle is a seasoned personal injury attorney at Morgan & Morgan's North Charleston office, where he focuses on premises liability cases. Originally from Texas, Jason earned his undergraduate degree from the University of Texas at Austin in 1999. He then attended Washington and Lee University School of Law, earning his Juris Doctor in 2003. His academic background laid the foundation for a long and successful career in civil litigation.

With over two decades of experience, Jason has built a reputation as a skilled litigator, handling personal injury and wrongful death cases both inside and outside the courtroom. His extensive knowledge of the legal system and practical trial experience allow him to develop effective case strategies that are tailored to each client's unique circumstances. Whether advocating through negotiation or in front of a jury, Jason remains focused on achieving meaningful results for those he represents.

Now admitted to practice law in South Carolina, Jason brings his wealth of experience to Morgan & Morgan's North Charleston team. He is committed to providing compassionate, results-driven representation to individuals who have been injured due to unsafe property conditions. Known for his thorough approach and unwavering dedication to justice, Jason is a trusted advocate for clients navigating some of the most difficult times in their lives.
