EDUCATION

University of Leicester

Boston University School of Law

Dylan Mazo represents injured clients with Morgan & Morgan in New York.

Dylan built his career in high-stakes litigation. He attended Boston University School of Law, where he graduated among the very top of his class. He then clerked for a federal judge, working on landmark class actions, constitutional challenges, and multi billion-dollar commercial disputes.

These experiences shaped how Dylan practices: with a trial-first mindset. Dylan's passion has always been to fight for the people, not the powerful. Today, Dylan exclusively represents injured people.

Dylan builds cases to win. He is relentlessly committed to leveling the playing field for his clients against large corporations and insurance carriers. He does not settle for less. His work speaks for itself.
