Chandler Rowh is an attorney in Morgan & Morgan's Charleston, South Carolina, office. While in law school, Chandler served as an editor of the South Carolina Law Review and was inducted into the Order of the Wig and Robe. Following law school, Chandler completed a judicial clerkship with the Honorable Maite Murphy, South Carolina circuit court judge, where he gained invaluable insight into trial practice.

Prior to joining Morgan & Morgan, Chandler practiced with several prominent civil defense firms, during which he represented a broad spectrum of clients across a wide range of practice areas, including but not limited to personal injury, premises liability, product liability, insurance coverage, and complex commercial litigation. These experiences have provided him with a deep understanding of defense strategies, which he now leverages to advocate effectively for individuals and families seeking justice.

As a lifelong South Carolinian, Chandler has a deep connection to the local community and is dedicated to advocating for those who have been injured at the hands of others. Outside the office, Chandler enjoys spending time with his family and friends and can often be found on the water, chasing a golf ball, or rooting for his South Carolina Gamecocks.
