EDUCATION

Washington & Lee University

University of Memphis (B.S., Mathematics)

University of Memphis (J.D.)

Jake Brown began his legal path at the University of Memphis Cecil C. Humphreys School of Law, where he quickly distinguished himself as a standout student. During his time in law school, he was frequently recognized for his excellence in legal writing and his natural talent for advocacy. These early accomplishments provided a strong foundation for his career, allowing him to develop the sharp analytical skills and persuasive communication style that he brings to his practice today.

Now a seasoned Tennessee attorney, Jake has built an impressive career handling complex litigation matters across several challenging fields, including medical malpractice, civil rights, and commercial law. He is admitted to practice throughout the state of Tennessee and in multiple federal courts, where he is known for his strategic and dedicated approach to every case. Jake remains deeply committed to helping families and individuals seek the justice they deserve, providing client focused representation that prioritizes clear communication and meaningful results.
