EDUCATION

Hofstra University, 2021

University of Richmond School of Law, 2025

Nadine Khalaf's path to the legal profession was paved by a deeply personal experience that reshaped her family's life. Growing up, she witnessed how a single moment can change everything when she and her father were involved in a devastating car accident. Spending her days in hospital waiting rooms and facing an overwhelming sense of uncertainty, Nadine learned firsthand the heavy weight that families carry in the wake of a tragedy. It was during this vulnerable time that her family turned to Morgan & Morgan, whose support allowed them to focus on healing while the firm navigated the complexities of the legal system.

Inspired by the profound impact of having a relentless advocate in her corner, Nadine set out to pursue a career that would allow her to provide that same strength to others. She began her academic journey at Hofstra University, where she earned her undergraduate degree in 2021. With a singular focus on personal injury law, she then moved on to the University of Richmond School of Law. Throughout her legal education, she remained driven by her childhood purpose, preparing to be the person who steps in to offer protection and clarity when the unthinkable happens.

Upon graduating with her Juris Doctor in 2025, Nadine felt a powerful sense of closure and commitment as she joined the legal field. Her education and her personal history merged to form a practice built on deep empathy and professional discipline. Today, Nadine is honored to walk into the offices of Morgan & Morgan every morning as a dedicated advocate for her clients. When she looks at her work, she doesn't just see case files; she sees families navigating their own most difficult moments. It is her greatest privilege to serve as a pillar of strength for those she represents, ensuring that no one has to face the aftermath of an accident alone while she fights for the justice and compensation they deserve.
