EDUCATION

Southwestern Law School
Scale Program

Michelle Sasoones pursued her legal education at Southwestern Law School, where she completed the institution's prestigious and rigorous two-year accelerated SCALE program. During her time in law school, Michelle focused her legal studies on civil litigation, developing a sharp foundation in courtroom procedure, evidence analysis, and client advocacy before earning her Juris Doctor. Shortly after completing her degree, she earned bar admission in California and officially launched her career in civil practice.

Today, Michelle brings her specialized litigation training and approachable style to the Morgan & Morgan family in the West Los Angeles office. Licensed to practice throughout California, she focuses on premises liability cases. Michelle is deeply committed to helping individuals navigate the legal process after suffering injuries, providing compassionate guidance and determined representation to ensure her clients receive the support, respect, and compensation they deserve.
