EDUCATION

University of California Santa Barbara - 2002-2006

Whittier Law School - 2011-2014

Mani Navab began his academic journey at the University of California, Santa Barbara, where he studied from 2002 to 2006 and developed a strong interest in advocacy and justice. He earned his law degree from Whittier Law School in 2014. From the very start of his legal career, Mani committed himself to representing injured individuals, choosing to focus exclusively on plaintiff personal injury litigation.

Throughout his career, Mani has built extensive experience handling a wide range of complex injury cases, including premises liability, automobile accidents, negligent security, wrongful death, catastrophic injuries, and dog attack cases. His dedication and results-driven approach have led to the recovery of more than $150,000,000 for clients through settlements, trial verdicts, and binding arbitrations. Mani's thorough preparation and strategic mindset enable him to confidently guide clients through challenging legal matters and pursue meaningful outcomes.

Mani is now an attorney at Morgan and Morgan's Irvine office, where he continues to advocate for individuals and families affected by serious injuries. He is admitted to practice law in both California and Nevada and is known for his tenacity, experience, and client-focused approach. Mani remains deeply committed to holding negligent parties accountable and helping his clients move forward with clarity and confidence.
