University of Miami School of Law, 2018

Garrett Keane is a maritime attorney with the trial law firm of Morgan & Morgan in the Miami office. Garrett received his law degree from the University of Miami Law School and his B.A. from the University of Florida.

Garrett's areas of concentration include cruise ship personal injury, boating and yachting accidents, sexual assaults, Jones Act and unseaworthiness, maritime wrongful death, crewmember and maritime worker claims, and jet ski and watercraft accidents.

Before joining Morgan & Morgan, he had been a partner at a prestigious Maritime law firm representing major cruise lines and vessel owners and practiced in the areas of personal injury, premises liability, wrongful death and DOHSA, Jones Act negligence, and crewmember litigation. He now applies the skills that he learned representing large corporations to his practice for you, the people.
