EDUCATION

University of Kentucky, 2012

University of Louisville Brandeis School of Law, 2015

Kate Mann is an attorney dedicated to representing injured workers in workers' compensation claims. Before joining Morgan & Morgan, she spent more than nine years representing employers and insurance carriers in workers' compensation litigation. Her extensive background provides her with valuable insight into how claims are evaluated and defended, allowing her to advocate effectively for clients seeking the benefits they deserve.

Kate is committed to guiding clients through the workers' compensation process with compassion and clear communication. She understands that a workplace injury can have a significant impact on every aspect of a person's life and strives to help clients navigate the legal process with confidence.

Kate earned her undergraduate degree from the University of Kentucky in 2012 before receiving her Juris Doctor from the University of Louisville Brandeis School of Law in 2015.

Outside of practicing law, Kate enjoys spending time with her husband, two children, and their dog.
