EDUCATION

Thomas More University 2020

Saint Louis University School of Law 2023

RJ Whitehill began his academic journey at Thomas More University, earning his undergraduate degree in 2020. Driven by an early desire to help others and stand up for those facing difficult circumstances, he continued his legal education at Saint Louis University School of Law, where he earned his Juris Doctor in 2023.

Upon becoming an attorney, RJ dedicated himself entirely to plaintiff advocacy from day one. He developed a well-rounded foundation in civil litigation by representing individuals across personal injury claims, debt defense, and Social Security disability matters. Throughout this work, RJ focused his energy on supporting people going through some of the most vulnerable and overwhelming moments of their lives, always striving to provide clear guidance and real hope to clients who felt they were past the end of their rope.

Today, RJ brings that compassionate, client-centered approach to the Morgan & Morgan team at the St. Louis office, where he concentrates his practice on helping individuals injured in car accidents. Valuing the firm's platform to make a meaningful, positive impact within the local community, RJ works diligently to ensure everyday people have a trusted advocate in their corner, guiding them through the recovery process and fighting to secure the accountability and compensation they deserve.
