EDUCATION

North Carolina State University,
2009

Campbell University School of Law, 2016

I have been practicing workers' compensation law exclusively for my entire career. I am passionate about this area of law, and I look forward to serving my clients with compassion and dedication.

Before beginning my career with Morgan & Morgan, I was a workers' compensation defense attorney representing businesses and insurance carriers. I know the other side of your case, and I know how to get you the best result. I have also worked at the North Carolina Industrial Commission as an attorney, so I am intimately familiar with how the workers' compensation "court" system works and how decisions are made. I look forward to bringing my expertise to your case and fighting for justice for you.

In my free time, I enjoy quilting, watercolor, spending time with my family, and snuggling my St. Bernard doodle mix.
