EDUCATION

Truman State University 2018

Saint Louis University 2021

Riley Brown is an experienced personal injury attorney in Morgan and Morgan's St. Louis office, where he dedicates his practice to representing plaintiffs in catastrophic personal injury, wrongful death, and premises liability cases. He began his academic journey at Truman State University, where he earned his undergraduate degree before pursuing his law degree at St. Louis University School of Law.

Riley started his career as an insurance defense attorney where he received invaluable experience into the insurance defense industry as well as preparing and attending for settlement and trial. Riley brings that same level of preparation and passion to his work advocating for individuals and families facing life-altering injuries and loss. He approaches every case with determination, strategic focus, and a deep sense of responsibility to his clients.

Outside of the office, Riley enjoys participating in triathlons and endurance events.
