EDUCATION

Saint Louis University School of Law.

Born and raised in St. Louis, Michael Lhotak developed an early appreciation for his hometown and a genuine desire to serve the hardworking members of his community. He pursued his legal education locally at the Saint Louis University School of Law, earning his law degree with a dedicated focus on civil advocacy and client representation. Following his admission to the Missouri Bar and joining the Bar Association of Metropolitan St. Louis, Michael spent years standing up for everyday individuals as a disability attorney. Throughout that formative chapter of his practice, he successfully won hundreds of administrative hearings, mastering the intricacies of medical evidence and providing steady, compassionate guidance to people in need of vital support.

Today, Michael brings that extensive hearing experience and dedication to the Morgan & Morgan team at the St. Louis office, concentrating his practice on workers compensation claims. Approachable, attentive, and deeply passionate about fighting for the people, he takes immense pride in guiding injured workers through the legal process to ensure they receive the medical care, and wage benefits they rightfully deserve. A proud St. Louis local through and through, Michael continues to live in the city he loves, cheering enthusiastically for all the hometown sports teams and staying actively engaged with his community.
