EDUCATION

University of Georgia: 2016

Mercer University School of Law: 2019

Born and raised in Ashburn, Georgia, W. Reese Giddens grew up with a deep appreciation for his home state and a strong desire to stand up for others in the community. He began his higher education at the University of Georgia, earning his undergraduate degree in 2016. Reese then went on to pursue his legal studies at Mercer University School of Law, where he immersed himself in courtroom procedure and litigation strategy, graduating with his Juris Doctor in 2019.

Following law school, Reese stepped directly into public service, spending six years serving as an Assistant District Attorney in the Southern Judicial Circuit. During this foundational period, he prosecuted serious felony matters, including homicide, sexual assault, and crimes against children, as well as complex state court cases. Handling high-stakes trials and extensive evidentiary hearings, Reese honed his instincts as a focused trial advocate committed to giving victims a voice and holding wrongdoers accountable in the courtroom.

Today, Reese brings that seasoned courtroom preparation and dedication to the Morgan & Morgan team at the Alpharetta office, focusing his practice on premises liability litigation. Approachable, attentive, and fiercely committed to his clients, he takes genuine pride in guiding individuals and families through difficult recoveries and fighting to secure the justice they deserve. Outside the office, Reese enjoys spending quality time with his wife, who is also an attorney, and relaxing at home with their two dogs, Ziggy and Levi.
